FOOTBALL DISTRICT IS RESTORED

"Our Town"

by J. B. WHITE

For more than a generation, the Hearst newspapers have faithfully and persistently reminded Americans that to be rich and weaponless in a world of greedy swashbucklers is a dangerous, if not suicidal, folly.

During the time that William Randolph Hearst has been writing solemn warnings on the subject, America has had to fight two major wars, a great many little ones, and at present finds no guarantee that she may not have to fight again and perhaps very soon.

In Every Instance, America has been caught unprepared.

This has cost money, time, effort, and what is worse, much unnecessary blood and tears to correct.

If America had been prepared, she might not have had to fight at all. And when forced to fight, it would have been cheaper, less troublesome and more saving in life and sorrow.

A brief survey of Mr. Hearst's policy on this subject is of particular interest and significance today. For certain ideas of his seem, at long last, in a fair way of being adopted and followed.

The basis of his thought was crystalized in an editorial of July 1, 1935:

"All Americans want peace.

"But a policy of pacifism does not mean peace.

"It means war.

"Unpreparedness invites attack, and in armed conflict the unprepared are destroyed.

"The world is now witnessing with dismay the absorption of China by Japan. In a short time a small vigorous nation of 65 million people will have absorbed an immense decadent nation of 400 million.

"China is an example of the results of pacifism and communism.

"China is exhausted by class conflict within. China has no adequate defense against hostility from without . . .

"Think what the criminals would do to our cities if we did not have a police force . . .

"Think of the destruction of fire to our property and to our lives if we did not have fire fighters to defend us from it . . .

"Merely disapproving of crime does not eliminate it. Merely hoping against fire does not prevent it. Merely denouncing war does not end it.

"We must defend ourselves against evils. We must have the means of defense.

"If we are to protect our people, our country, our civilization, ourselves, we must have the means of defense.

"Otherwise we will go the way of pacifist China.

"Otherwise we will lose all that we possess and all that we have been able to contribute to the progress of the world."

Upon this basis of broad strategical policy, Mr. Hearst has developed certain specific tactical recommendations. One of them, outlined also in 1935, says:

". . . A great navy and a great air force are vitally necessary to the defense of our country, our people and our liberties.

"We must not fail in our sacred obligation to defend not only ourselves and our homes and our families, but our free institutions, in order that from them, as root and seed, shall spring liberty for all the peoples of the earth."

"The way to defend the United States from attack in ANY form by ANY hostile power is with airplanes.

"The way to halt and hamper an invading ARMY is with airplanes.

"The way to destroy an attacking FLEET is with airplanes.

"Airplanes will be, and must be, the main arm of defense and the determining arm of defense.

"They are the MODERN arm of defense and destructive offense.

"Every day, with the progress in airplane construction, airplane de-

The "Death Car" in which Clyde Barrow, once public enemy No. 1, and his sweetheart Bonnie Paker, met their death, which ended the ghastly, bloody career of two of the United States' most notorious members of the gangster world, will be on display at the Hefley-Stedman Motor Company showroom Thursday Jan. 19 from 1 p. m. til 9 p. m.

With this exhibition, a lecture will be given by C. Wiley Stanley and Everett Fillingham, nationally known lecturers and long connected with the Associated Anti-Crime Union of America. A brief talk will be given at the car, explaining what happened at the time the bandits were killed by the officers, detailing something of their careers and answering countless questions that the audience is privileged to ask.

The exhibit shows the result of our government's relentless drive against crime. Special invitation has been extended to ministers, local officials and police everywhere to come and view the "Death Car" in which the two notorious criminals were shot to death by operatives of the law.

THRALL OUSTED

There will be no split district in football this year, it was announced here Wednesday by Coach L. C. Wood, who returned Tuesday from a meeting held in Taylor.

The district formerly known as 28 B is now 33 B with the following clubs: Belton, Taylor, Rockdale, Rosebud, Georegtown, Granger, Killeen and Cameron. In the old district, Thrall was a member but Killeen has been substituted for Thrall in the new district.

Each club in the district will be responsible for one club and prior to the opening of the sason's play, each team roster will be thoroughly checked to establish the elegibility of each player in advance so that in the future, there will be no clubs thrown out at the end of the season because of ineligible players.

Coach Wood announced the following schedule for Cameron: September 29, Rockdale at Cameron; October 6, Granger at Cameron; October 13, Mexico City there; October 20, Georgetown at Cameron; October 27, at Taylor at Cameron; November 3, Killeen at Killeen; November 10, Belton at Belton; November 17, Rosebud at Rosebud and September 22 and November 24 open.

GLASS THE FLORIST TALKS TO ROTARIANS

Cameron Rotarians Wednesday heard an interesting story of flowers and the great industry that has grown up around the use and sale of flowers for all occasions when Lester Glass of Glass the Florist brought the program for the day.

Mr. Glass, one of Texas' best known florists, traced the growth of the floral industry in Texas and that of his shop in Cameron which annually does a large business. Difficulties experienced by small town florists were discussed. Several years ago the small town flower shop had great difficulty in giving customers a wide selection of flowers but due to rapid transportation these difficulties have been overcome.

The state of Colorado is the best section of the United States for the growing of Carnations. Texas weather due to its variable temperatures, is not suited for the growing of Carnations. In the state of California rare flowers which are necessarilly produced in hot houses in Texas, grow wild in the fields, said Mr. Glass. Each morning people

The Washington Stage

BY
W. R. POAGE
OUR CONGRESSMAN

Dear Friends:

Another Congress has convened and while I doubt if I will ever get to feel at home here in Washington, I realize that I must be getting old as I did not get nearly such a thrill as I did two years ago.

Mrs. Poage and I drove to Washington by the Southern route through Vicksburg,, Montgomery, and Atlanto which the idea of keeping out of the fog and snow that are usually encountered over the mountains of Tennessee and Virginia at this time of the year. However, we did run into two days of rain and a little snow as it was. We arrived in Washington Sunday night. Monday we held the Democratic Caucus at which we determined on the re-nomination of Hon. W. B. Bankhead of Alabama as Speaker of the House and Hon. Sam Rayburn of Texas as Majority Leader.

Tuesday at high noon, the seventy-Sixth Congress assembled and after the roll call by States, proceeded to elect the officers nominated by the Democratic Caucus the preceeding day. There are about twice as many Republicans as there were in the last Congress, but the Democrats still have a very powerful majority—In fact, all the majority that any party should need. I feel that a more equal division of the parties will probably result in a better session. It is never a healthy thing for one group to hold all the power and the Republican gains will, I hope serve to those of us on the Democratic side on our metal.

On Wednesday at 1:00 p. m., President Roosevelt delivered one of his great speeches. I am sure that many of our people heard this message over the radio. I wish all might have been able to sit in the House Chamber as I did and see as well as hear him. The President looks older than he did two years ago, but he still has the most magnetic personality I have ever seen. The President's message held out hope that there would be no new taxes. At the same time, it assured all Americans that this nation was not overlooking its duty to protect our free institutions from foreign dictators as well as from internal strife. I admired its frankness, its recognition of dangers abroad and at home, and its assurance that our government would help to restore our national income and prosperity. My only disappointment was the President seemed to overlook the fact that there is still a very acute farm problem in this nation, and that there can be no permanent economic recovery until farm prices and farm incomes are materially increased.

I recongnize that we have a very serious relief problem still with us, but Congress has already begun to take action to give temporary relief to the unemployed. No relief program is going to give more than temporary aid until we devise an economy on our farms. I do not mean by this that our present farm program should be scrapped and something new established again this year—too late for our farmers to know what to plant—but I do mean that while we are making a crop under the 1919 program we should be giving thought to long time policies under which we can hope to prosper in years to come.

Yesterday, the second Democratic Caucus selected Hon. Milton West of Brownsville, Texas, for one of the four Democratic vacancies on the committee on Ways and Means. As this committee not only passes on all tax measures, but also serves as a committee on committees, it was very important to Texas to secure membership thereon, and I consider it a high compliment to Texas as well as to Mr. West to know that he received more votes than any other member of the House for this place.

We are falling behind with our mail as we are trying to move our office and as my secretary has been unable to find a place to live until last night. As it is, he is eight miles from our office, has to walk up to the fourth floor and pay at least four times as much as he would in Waco.

With best wishes, I am,

Your friend,
W. R. POAGE,
Member of Congress, 11th Congressional District.

We are all truly thankful for the rain. Much complaint has been made in recent months about the dry weather, the much needed rain for stock water and the preparation of farm land for the coming crop year. Now that it is coming, let us give thanks to God. And if it should be raining Sunday why make the rain an excuse for not coming to church and worshiping the God who gives it? Any other day in the week we get up and go about our daily tasks and the rain keeps no one away from his work. Some one has said. The worship of God is man's highest expression of spiritual activity." Certainly it is an expression of loyalty and devotion to God. We count on your presences and your sympathetic prayers. And all visitors will find a warm welcome.

David Miller of Ben Arnold, who underwent a very serious head operation at Scott and White Hospital in Temple, is now at the home of his father, E. S. Miller of Buckholts and is resting well. David would be happy to have his friends call on him. He is the brother of Mrs. John Matyastik of Clarkson.

MILANO 4-H CLUB

"When buying chickens, it is much safer to buy baby chicks, than to buy pullets," said Miss Kathryn Wilson, the new assistant home demonstration agent, to the Milano 4-H Club, when the club met January 3, in the home economics room of the Milano High School.

If you buy baby chicks, you know that they have had no disease, but if you buy pullets from a hatchery, they might carry diseases that would spread among the flock that you already had.

Billie Hensley, the president, presided over the club. An invitation to meet with the Rockdale 4-H club was accepted.

An indication of the rapid transit of the modern day was indicated when Mr. Glass said that a letter mailed in Cameron on any given day is in California the next morning and flowers are shipped by air mail to all parts of America and they are also shipped in refrigerated cars to concentration points like Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston.

Mr. Glass also told the Rotarians about the use of flowers and the proper time to give them and his talk was one of the most interesting yet heard by members of the Rotary Club.

who was 89 years old on July 4, 1938, and one of only a few Confederate soldiers alive to tell the story of the late war between the states. Last year Mr. Camp attended the last of the Confederate reunions which was held on the battlefield at Gettysburg, a joint gathering of soldiers from both the northern and southern armies.

Several children survive as follows: H. H. Camp of San Gabriel, and president of the Rockdale State Bank; W. H. Camp of San Gabriel, H. M. Camp of Thorndale, B. M. Camp of Temple, E. A. Camp, mayor of Rockdale and Mrs. R. H. Caldwell of Rockdale, and Mrs. Howard Amason of Rosewell, New Mexico. Sixteen grand children were born into the faimly and thirteen now survive, one of whom is Emory B. Camp of Cameron. There are 15 great grand children.

As a special courtesy and out of consideration for the family the city of Rockdale by proclamation of the government closed all its business houses during the funeral.

The funeral was directed by Phillips and Lucky of Rockdale and pall bearers were seven grand sons as follows: Emory B. Camp, Ike Camp, L. Camp, Hope Camp, Jr., Felton Camp, M. M. Camp and W. H. Caldwell.

Her social activities gave her membership in a number of clubs included among them, the Music Club. She was a member of All Saints Episcopal Church and was devoted to its progress and active in directing its music programs. Mrs. Jeter is survived by two sons, Royal Jeter and John Jeter of Cameron; one grand daughter, Margaret Florence Jeter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Jeter of Cameron; six brothers, Frank M. Smith of Malwaukee, Wisconsin; McRee Smith of Detroit, Mich., Drewry M. Smith of Norfolk, Va.; Iredell M. Smith, Griff M. Smith, and Gardner M. Smith, all of St. Louis, Mo.; and two sisters, Mrs. A. MISS LILLIE NEHER BURIED IN CAMERON

Miss Lillie Itasca Neher, for many years a resident of Cameron and a native Texan, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ed. F. English at 802 West Main Street on Thursday evening, December 29, 1938, at 10 o'clock.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon from the Coleman Funeral Home at 3 o'clock with Rev. A. J. McCary, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery in Cameron.

Miss Neher was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John G. Neher and was born at Salado, historic settlement in Bell county on February 13, 1866. She came to Cameron with her parents when a small girl and had lived in this city since that time. At the age of 12 years she suffered an attack of infantile paralysis and was a cripple the remainder of her life.

Early in childhood Miss Neher united with the Methodist church in Cameron and remained a member of that church through the years. Her affliction, while a great handicap, did not keep her from manifesting a keen interest in events nor from manifesting a loyal sympathetic interest and devotion to her parents. Living a quiet life at home, her energies were expended almost entirely in her devotion to her parents and her loved ones. Following the death of her mother, also a cripple, she gave her devotion to her father. After Mr. Neher's death, she made her home with her sister, a widow, in the Neher home at 504 North Crockett Avenue. A few years ago she moved to the home on West Main Street. Several weeks before her death, she suffered injuries from an accident in which a wrist was broken.

Surviving her are one sister, Mrs. English, and nieces and nephews as follows: Mrs. Minnie Frasier of Giddings, Charles Ballenger and Arthur Ballenger of Somerville; Geo. Ballenger of Silsvee, Texas; Mrs. Ed Burke and Mrs. Abbie Meeke of Norman, Oklahoma; J. D. Womack and William Womack of Oklahoma City.

Among those from our of town to attend the funeral were Tom Lockard of Somerville, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Newton of Houston and Mrs. P. O. Adams of Waco.

Pall bearers were Judge Jeff T. Kemp, Charlie C. Smith, Judge Graham Gillis, W. A. Bonds, Joe Bass and Charlie Swift.

Friends and loved ones expressing their deep sense of loss over her death brought many rich floral tributes.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientists, on Sunday, January 15.

The Golden Text is: "In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death" (Proverbs 12:28.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations . . . For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night" (Psalms 90:1, 4.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The days of our pilgrimage will multiply instead of diminish, when God's kingdom comes on earth; for the true way leads to Life instead of to death, and earthly experiences discloses the finity of error and the infinite capacities of Truth, in which God gives man dominion over all the earth" (page 202.)

fense becomes more and more the one chief defense to be relied upon by a nation which wants war kept from its confines.

"Every day the failure to provide complete air defense lays our country more and more open to attack by air—attack which no armies or navies, no matter how powerful, can repel.

"The way to defend America from the ravages of war—and the only way to defend it—is in the air."

The pitfully weak and undeveloped defenses of the Pacific Coast, the governmental apathy towards them, and the manner in which they are affected by the modern technique of war, has provoked some remarkably prophetic and outspoken editorials from Mr. Hearst. He said, in December, 1934:

"I do not think there was any 'Japanese danger' . . . as long as the United States was willing to retain and fortify the Philippines.

"But when the United States abandons the Philippines, the 'Japanese danger' to our country becomes exceedingly real.

"Japan then can take the Philippines, and WILL take them; and Japan will FORTIFY them.

"What was the Philippine frontier of this nation, will (then) be within 24 hours of the coast of California—a day's ride on the wings of the wind.

"That is something that our provincial representatives at Washington cannot realize.

"With the abandonment of the Philippines (our country) began for the first time to shrink; and when a nation begins shrinking, there is no knowing when it will stop.

"It is disturbing to realize that only decadent nations contract, vigorous nations expand.

"Japan is expanding."

And to Japan itself, Mr. Hearst had this to say, in a formal statement published by the Tokio Yomiuri Shimbun, in December, 1934:

" . . . If the nations of the world insist upon increasing armaments in ever increasing meanace to the peace of the world and the safety of our country, then the United States will build, and must build, whatever fleets of ships and airplanes may be necessary to defend the American land and the American people.

"We have no hostile intent towards any Power anywhere, but we have a firm determination to defend our shores, to . . . enable our country to protect its peace and prosperity even in the midst of a war-mad world."

Elsewhere Mr. Hearst said:

"The motto of America should be: Millions for defense but not one cent for oppression or aggression. .

"Let peace find us prepared, and war find us protected."

His plea to the Democratic Party of 1932, again on the question of defense, is quite as pertinent and meaningful today, when the emergency is certainly greater:

"Let the Democratic Party . . . repeat the record of Cleveland and Whitney, rebuild the national defense, inspire respect for America in all lands, rescue our nation from pitiful subserviency to the interests and ambitions of foreign nations and 'make democracy safe' by making America safe for our democratic institutions, our democratic standards and our democratic civilization."

Fortunately, the American people now have a Government that seems decided to face the realities, to realize the precariousness of the American position in a world overrun by ambitious aggressors and bigoted despots, and to begin at last the task of giving us the weapons necessary for safety.

Judge Jeff T. Kemp attended the 84th anniversary of the organization of the Masonic Lodge at Belton, Tuesday evening when the lodge members entertained with a venison dinner at 7 o'clock.

His Life Story

Reproduced from

The Dallas News

Sorrows as well as joys come into all human relationship, including that of parents and children. Many times on our radio programs I have had the sad duty of reporting the loss of an old friend who was the close loved one of a good friend om mine. Such was the passing of Elmer Renfro's mother. This is what I said:

I want this morning to pay tribute respectfully to the memory of one of our most ardent admirers, one of the finest characters in the Southwest, a lady of 81 years. It seemed that each additional year she lived she enjoyed life more and more. She used to call me often after our programs and tell me how much she enjoyed them.

And, friends, when she would call me on the phone, she would not say 'This is Mrs. W. C. Renfro;" no, she completely merged herself in thinking of her fine sons. Knowing that I am a good friend of her son, Elmer, one of the most outstanding and best loved citizens of my home city, she would always say, "This is Elmer Renfro's mother." Now, isn't that the true type of mother, folks? God grant that our changing customs and methods of living shall never give us another type of mother.

Hillbillies Sing Her Favorite Number.

Yes, Elmer Renfro's mother passed peacefully and quietly last week to a better place. In her honor I am going to ask the Hillbilly Boys to sing her favorite number. How do I know it was her favorite song? Because she told me so. It is Look Down That Lonesome Road.

Twenty-four years ago Mrs. Renfro lost her husband, a kind and loving man. It was then, twenty-four years ago that she started looking down that lonesome road. Thousands of you home-loving widows and widowers out yonder know what I am talking about. And had it not been for her sons and daughters, oh how sonesome that road would have been.

It is not always your own flesh and blood who bring comfort and kindly cheer in your old age. Often these comforts are sons and daughters who were brought into the home by adoption. In all of our work on the radio, no programs have won greater response than those urging childless couples to make some little motherless or fatherless child happy for life by adopting same. A typical program of this character:

Friends, let me tell you that the subject of adopting little orphan children into your homes is of vital interest to more people today than ever before in history. It is astonishing the number of letters I receive from married folks without children, asking our advice on the adoption of children. They want children. And it is a sad state of mind for good women who want babies when they are deprived of that gift of God. But several paramount issues are always raised when the matter of adopting children is discussed.

All Objections Overcome.

It is often said that the baby to be adopted may be of inferior parentage; it may later bring shame upon the family; since it is not of our flesh and blood, can we love it as our own? And tonight I hope to erase those objections from your minds and hearts, to relegate them to the scrap pile. My first bomb is this: Our prisons are full of those whose blood parents are alive and weeping their hearts out. Did you know that very few prisoners are adopted children?

Where you hear of one adopted child proving ungrateful or bringing disgrace upon its benefactors, you will find 10,000 real children doing worse. So there you are. And now for another objection. How much control have real parents over the character of their own offspring, except as character is taught them after birth? Wherein does that opportunity to teach and instill character in your own child differ from doing the same for the adopted baby?

All normal babies may not be born alike in intelligence or health. But you cannot predetermine the normalcy or intelligence or health and soundness of body in your own offspring. Whereas, you can select an orphan that has a sound, perfect body and the character readings of intelligence and character. Emmerson once wrote a revealing paragraph on the reason why successful men so seldom produce successful sons. History also records that many of our successful men and women came from lowly walks of life. Among the thousands of helpless babies in our orphan homes, there are no doubt a few geniuses. You may select one. Why not try it?

Many a boy or girl has been ruined by the chickenhearted love of their real parents, who have refrained from administering punishment sufficient to enfore obedience and correct deportment. With your adopted boy or girl you will possibly rule with a firmer hand and thereby grant him or her a better chance of success in life.

Keeps a Record of Them.

And taking the final analysis, remove the selfish motive and consider that you are placed on this earth to be of some useful service. The poor little, helpless orphan baby needs the tender guiding hand and support of grown folks of high principles. Why not perform that task? It is a noble thing to do, a most useful thing to do. If properly done, you will have a great deal of fun while the baby is young. You will enjoy its antics while growing up and you will be proud when the child reaches manhood or young womanhood.

And when the wintery winds of time have frosted your locks and you approach the age when you need the same tender care as the baby now needs, you will enjoy the care and attention that a grateful citizen will bestow on those who took him in and sheltered him when he was helpless. And the assuring strong grasp of that man or woman who holds your feeble, trembling hand as your spirit departs will be worth to you all the sacrifices you have made in a lifetime.

But if you adopt a child, be sure and remember this one fundamental rule: Be sure that you are the first one to tell and explain the relationship to the child as soon as the child is able to understand. And that should be very early. If some gossipping neighbor gets the information to the child before you do, the deal is blowed up.

Go to your nearest orphanage tomorrow and pick out your baby. Write us; we want to keep a record of all who follow this advice. We will not publish your names without your permission. We just want to keep the record.

Those records, of course, are inviolate. Yet there is nothing in our work of more than ten years on the air which gives us greater joy and pride than to know that today many a Texas home is brighter and happier, and many a little boy and girl has a home who would otherwise be deprived of the loving care of parents, but for these special child adoption programs.

Next Week—Promoting Texas.
